NOTICE.

Readers of the EVENING GAZETTE, going out of town for the summer, can have the paper mailed to them to any point on the Pacific Coast for 50 cents per month, postage free.

The sad realization of the great fear which has weighed down the Nation's heart for the past few months is at last accomplished. The finger of an inscrutable Destiny yesterday bereft our country of its chosen martial leader, and pulseless clay and an undying name is all that it left of the hero of Winchester. Another Field Marshal, the Ney of the American army, gallant Phil Sheridan, has obeyed the final order to sheathe his sword and enter into the "bivouac of the dead." Among the flood of words that come today from every quarter robed in eulogy, wrapped in endearments or shrouded in sympathy for the dead chieftain, Sheridan's tribute to the lad that carried the musket stands out in bold relief. Said he at a reunion of veterans not long since: "I went through all the grades they had in the volunteer service, and then I commenced and went through all the grades in the regular service, and the date of every commission I have is the date of a battle. Now I want to say to you, comrades, that I am indebted to the private in the ranks for all this credit that has come to me. He was the man who did the fighting, and the man who carried the musket is the greatest hero of the war in my opinion."

Here is an instance of the true hero, not only skilled in the mastery evolution of troops in battle, but unselfish to share with them the honors of victory or suffer for them the odium of defeat. Unselfish he was always, and for that, combined with his fearlessness in battle and regard for the comfort of his troops, he was loved and respected by every soldier who wore the blue, by every patriot, and will continue to be so long as the stars and stripes wave over the land which he loved so well and fought to save.

General Sheridan was bred to arms. From the martial cradle of the American soldier at West Point he was detailed to the frontier and met the hostile savage on the plains in the cunning warfare of the bush and defile. His soldierly qualifications attracted the attention of his superior officers, and when Sumpter was fired upon and the country engaged in fratricidal strife he was summoned to the field of carnage where he earned rapidly the stars of a Brigadier-General, until, by Grant's orders in 1864, he was transferred to the command of the cavalry of the Army of the Potomac. From this time to the close of the war he was a most potent cause of the annihilation of the flower of the Confederate army in Virginia. A skillful commander, a remorseless rider, a thunderbolt in the attack, he led and his men followed him through many a bloody battlefield, to the dawn of peace at Appomattox.

General Sheridan's history is too well known to need description. At fifty-seven, loaded with honors, he awaited calmly the approach of death. No honors too great can be bestowed upon the man who, in the full strength of his manhood and power, pointed with pride to his insignia of fame and said: "The boys with the muskets gave those to me."

John Robinson, the veteran showman and circus man, died yesterday in Cincinnati, aged 90 years. His sons had succeeded him in that business the past few years. He had amassed a large fortune.

The French Government has sent professors of agriculture everywhere to advise farmers how best to gather and preserve their crops during the weather crisis.

SHERIDAN DEAD.

He Quietly Enters the Bivouac of the Dead.
 NONQUITT, Mass., August 5.—General Sheridan died this morning at 9:15 o'clock. He was conscious to the last and died quietly and apparently without pain.

AN AWFUL FIRE.

Many People Shut in and Roasted to Death.

NEW YORK, August 4.—A fire, attended with great loss of life, occurred yesterday afternoon on the Bowery. It originated in a six-story brick building, in which there were 150 persons at the time. Nearly all were Polish Jews, working at tailoring. Fifteen minutes after the alarm sounded it was discovered that many persons were still in the burning building. A number had also leaped from the windows or fallen from the fire escapes, making the list of injured very large early in the progress of the fire.

Some exciting scenes occurred during the fire. The inmates were panic-stricken, and rushed to the nearest windows and fire escapes and hurled themselves out, falling on the sidewalk, where they lay bruised and bleeding. Great confusion was caused by the inability of the inmates to speak or understand English. A large number of inmates of the building were women and girls.

The building was completely shut in by surrounding structures. There was a space of fifteen feet between the rest of the White House on the Bowery and the front of the tenement, a narrow passage between the rear of the tenement at the north, and adjoining was the stage of the People's Theater, and another building abutted against it at the south. It is supposed that a gas or oil stove exploded, setting fire to the premises.

The casualties at midnight were believed to be as follows: Dead 30, reported missing 8, seriously injured 10. It is probable that search among the ruins will increase the list.

SENATE TARIFF BILL.

Prospects of the Measure Keeping Congressmen Out of the Campaign.

WASHINGTON, August 6.—"I hardly expect we will get our Tariff bill before the full Committee on Finance earlier than the latter part of next week," said Senator Allison this afternoon, "and I am afraid," continued he, "that there will be more than one or two caucuses upon it before it is reported to the Senate, but there can be no doubt about our getting the bill out of committee discussion and passing it."

There was complete quietude around the Finance Committee today. The Republican Senators and members of the House were nearly all out of town. A limited number of copies of the partially prepared bill have been printed and placed in the hands of Republican Senators and Republican members of the House of the Committee on Ways and Means under a strict injunction of secrecy, and there is going on a universal comparison of notes and interchange of opinion. The idea is to prepare a bill that will suit not only the Republicans in the Senate, but those in the House, and as many of their constituents as possible. It is generally conceded that Congress will be in session till about the 1st of October, if not longer. The Democratic members of the Committee on Ways and Means said today that the Senate bill will be regularly considered by that committee before it is reported to the House, and that the prospects are a fortnight will be consumed by the committee after it goes through the Senate. This will keep the members out of the campaign till a very late day.

BOULANGER.

French Embassy at London Oppose Reception in His Honor.

LONDON, August 6.—In connection with Boulanger's proposed visit to London in September, overtures have been made to the French Club here as to what sort of reception he would have from his countrymen in England. The French Embassy has indirectly caused it to be made known that anybody who entertains Boulanger or accepts invitations to receptions given in his honor will be immediately stricken off the Embassy's reception list.

The St. James' Gazette's correspondent at Berlin says that in political circles there the tension between France and Italy is regarded as of a most serious character.

THE FRIEND OF LABOR.

Six Hundred Railroad Employees Call on Harrison.

INDIANAPOLIS, August 4.—A special train over the Vandalia road arrived shortly after 8 o'clock this evening, bringing in 600 members of the Harrison and Morton Employees' Club of Terre Haute. It was 10 o'clock when the procession drew up before General Harrison's residence. When the General appeared he was greeted with three deafening cheers and the waving of 600 lanterns. General Harrison addressed the delegation at considerable length, dwelling on the responsibility of railroad employees in whose hands were entrusted the lives of the people and the commerce of the country.

Referring to the workshops, railroad enterprises, etc., in Indiana, the General said: "It will be hard to convince such an intelligent body of workmen that a policy which would transfer from this country to another work that might be done here, is not good for them. It can easily be demonstrated that if our revenue laws were so adjusted that imports from Great Britain should be doubled that it would be good for the workmen of England, but I think it would be hard to demonstrate that it would be good for the workmen of America."

A FASCINATING FRAUD.

Denver Society Victimized by a Fashionable Couple.

DENVER, August 6.—For the past few weeks Denver has been afflicted with a fashionable pair of New Yorkers whose doings have culminated in their arrest. The parties are Mme. Laurie Faridan and her youthful husband, Albert. The madame is fully 30 years of age, and is possessed of a rather corpulent figure, but, withal, has a most charming face. Her most attractive feature, however, is a pair of magnificent coal-black eyes, which she uses with the art of a true Parisian.

When the pair came here they began a systematic scheme of getting rich people to cash small notes, and such were the woman's persuasive powers that she succeeded in floating on the surface of society by this means. Finally she was introduced to Governor Adams, and after a brief acquaintance asked his Excellency to accommodate her in the matter of a $25 note. The Governor declined, and, suspecting the woman, gave a hint to a detective.

The officer made her acquaintance and was in turn approached, with the result that the pair were arrested yesterday. To-day, after being photographed by the police, the handsome New Yorker was arraigned for trial, but as the victims were all rich men and prominent in society, they refused to prosecute and she was at once discharged, and ordered to leave Denver by the Chief of Police.

MICHIGAN.

From a Republican Point of View the Outlook is Very Promising.

WASHINGTON, August 6.—From a Republican point of view, Representative Cutcheon says, the political outlook in Michigan could not be more promising. The Republicans from the State in the House will be nominated, he thinks. Mr. Seymour may have a fight for it if Jay Hubbell opposes him, but the rest are practically without opposition. Mr. O'Donnell had announced that he was not a candidate, but they will renominate him anyhow. They hope, he says, to carry Mr. Ford's district. The Democratic majority has been run low, and it is a manufacturing district. Mr. Ford, however, is making an active canvass and may be assisted by his participation in the immigration investigation. "As to the general situation," says Mr. Cutcheon, "I think we shall carry Michigan by a large majority this fall than we have since 1880. The fight will be chiefly on the tariff, and in my district especially the soldier question will enter into it. I think Governor Luze and other State officers will be renominated and elected."

Maxwell's Fight for Life.

St. Louis, August 6.—Governor Moreland has received telegraphic advices that papers have been forwarded him from the British government through the State Department, asking for a further respite for Maxwell, the condemned murderer of Preller. The Governor does not know yet what action he will take when the papers reach him. Maxwell's attorneys say that the condemned man's father secured the request from the British government, and claim that testimony has been developed which will save Maxwell's life.

A Wonderful Instrument.

WASHINGTON, August 6.—Professor Elijah Gray has obtained letters patent, dated July 31, 1888, for a combination of instruments called "teleautograph," consisting of a transmitter and receiver, and designed for transmitting messages by wire between distant points by the sender in his own handwriting, thus doing away with skilled operators. The invention is based on the discovery of a new principle in controlling the electric current, whereby a pulsatory current is produced.

A Grasshopper Estimate.

OTTAWA, August 4.—Reports of terrible ravages of grasshoppers in the surrounding districts are daily reaching Ottawa. A naturalist who visited the infested district has estimated there were on each square mile of territory upward of one hundred million of grasshoppers.

POLITICAL POINTS.

The doubtful States are constantly becoming less doubtful.

Ninety per cent of the Wisconsin bolters in 1884 are earnestly supporting the Republican cause this year.

The stampede of Democratic Protectionists in West Virginia over to the Republican party is assuming great dimensions.

General Harrison has nearly a room full of relics of the 1840 campaign sent to him by admiring friends of the grandfather and grandson.

In Flushing, L. I., at a Republican flag raising, the standard-bearer was the man who raised the first Cleveland flag there four years ago.

In a recent letter Bishop Vincent of the M. E. Church declares that while he is a Prohibitionist he is not a third-party man, but a Republican.

A prominent Massachusetts Democrat, who has been visiting the interior of New York State, says he is astonished at the number of Democrats who are deserting the Cleveland ticket.

Statistics in the Auditor's office at Columbus show that the agitation of the tariff question has caused a loss to the sheep-growing interests of the State of Ohio during the past year of $1,507,000.

The latest addition to the Republican ranks in New York is a Harrison and Morton club made up entirely of Southern men who are going to support the Republican party this year, because of its position on the tariff question.

A citizen of Elizabethtown, N. Y., writes: "This is not a manufacturing town, but nearly every man is a Protectionist. Last week many farmers sold their wool unwashed for 20 cents. Last year they received 40 and 41 cents per pound."

KEEPING ALFALFA CLEAN.

Some Points Which Will Prove of Interest to Farmers.

Farmers in some portions of California are having a great deal of trouble in keeping their alfalfa fields clean from the growth of other plants. The particular trouble about which complaint is made, says the Genoa Courier, is the presence of foxtail grass in the alfalfa. It is said that a large portion of the hay raised in some sections contains so much of this objectionable growth that the price has fallen fully 50 per cent. below what is paid for the clean alfalfa.

One of the causes for this trouble, says and exchange, may be found in the parsimony with which alfalfa is often sowed. While the seed is not so high-priced as to force economy in its use, still many will be found who recommend that no more than fifteen or twenty pounds of seed be sown to the acre. The result of this parsimony economy is seen in the slender scattering growth of the alfalfa, which is easily choked out by foxtail and other noxious growths. An alfalfa field upon which too little seed has been sown is a melancholy spectacle, with its patchwork of good grass and weeds—the latter often largely predominating.

It is pretty poor economy not to sow an abundance of seed. Thirty pounds to the acre is none too much, as many a farmer has proven. Mix the alfalfa with barley, sow it carefully and plentifully and the result will be a growth of the two plants combined which will effectively choke out any weeds. That is the whole secret of getting a good stand of alfalfa, and when that is done there will be no trouble from foxtail or anything else. If alfalfa is cut at the proper time no opportunity will be afforded for weeds of any kind to go to seed, even should they manage to get a start. Of course, it is possible that the water for irrigating, when conducted in open ditches, may convey the seeds of weeds upon the alfalfa field. But the latter plant is so rapid a grower that the weeds stand little chance of making headway against it. Occasionally, for some reason, a portion of the alfalfa plants may die. Some new seed should then be harrowed in, and in this way the stand will be always kept even and the plants so closely together that no weed stands a ghost of a chance.

Drunkard Redskins.

Notwithstanding the most strenuous exertions of the law officers to put a stop to the practice of selling liquor to Indians the law is violated daily. This morning a herculean buck, under the influence of the ardent, made it lively for the constabulary, and required the combined efforts of three men to lodge the prisoner in the cooler. The culprit will probably be let off with a reprimand or a few days imprisonment in the county jail.

A Volcano Breaks Loose.

ROME, August 6.—There is a panic in Messina. The volcano near the city burst into violent eruption, and immense quantities of ashes, sand and scoriae have fallen and almost buried the neighboring villages. So much dust has blown over and into the city that the sun is almost obscured, and the lava which is ejected in copious streams finds its way to farms and orchards, and threatens to ignite habitations. Convulsions of the earth are continually occurring, destroying houses and driving the inhabitants from home.

JOTTINGS.

Ladies, misses, and infants' robes, and vests at Miss Gibbs', Virginia street.

If you want a daily, weekly or monthly journal, and a good cigar to smoke while reading, go to C. A. Turston's.

Francis, of the Wileland saloon, is non-partisan when it comes to serving customers with his choice lunches and superb Wileland beer.

There seems to be a magic influence in the sound of the Depot Hotel song—its rattle never fails to call a good number of hungry customers.

Haverson & King are building up a large trade by making a display of tempting stock. Examine the quality of their goods and ask their prices.

When you want spirits for medicinal purposes, go to Pinniger's. He keeps the famous Thistle Dew Whisky, which comes direct from a bonded warehouse.

J. J. Becker's steers, with a foaming glass of Anheuser, Beck or Fredericksburg beer, will regale the most lank, lean and fasting individual who may patronize him.

Conner, mine host of the Pioneer hotel, knows how to run a hotel, and the traveling public are evidently aware of the fact. Meals 25 cents, the best in town for the money.

J. F. Aiken will saw your wood with his steam machine, after which it will be pleasant exercise for you to split it yourself before breakfast these pleasant mornings. Ice delivered at all parts of town.

Having in view that scriptural saying about the camel and the needle's eye, C. J. Brooks has no desire to become rich, and is consequently selling the best stationery, blank books and paints and oils, at a little over than cost.

NOTES.

The customers of the Reno Water Co. will please take notice that from and after this date, they will be required to use sprinklers or nozzles in irrigating. The universal custom of turning the water on at the hydrant and allowing it to run simply through the hose alone will have to be discontinued upon the ground that there is an unnecessary use and waste of water; besides, in many cases flooding the streets.

The above conditions will be strictly enforced, otherwise the water will be shut off without further notice.

July 30, 1888. F. R. EVANS, Supt. and President R. W. Co. 1300 1st.

Attention, Eugene Company No. 11. The regular monthly meeting will be held at the Justice Court to-night (Monday) at 8:30 p. m.

G. GOODWYN, Secretary.

Reducing the Surplus.

The disposition of the surplus in the U. S. Treasury engages the attention of our Statesmen, but a more vital question has our attention, and that is the reduction of the Surplus Consumptive. Since the discovery and introduction of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, there has been a marked decrease in the mortality from this dread disease, and it is possible to still further reduce the number of Consumptives. How? By keeping constantly at hand a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and using according to directions, upon the appearance of the first symptoms, such as Cough, Cold, a Sore Throat, a Chest, or a Hoarse Voice. Taken thus early a cure is guaranteed. Trial bottles free at Houghton's Drug Store.

PERSONAL.

H. M. Yerington went below Saturday evening.

Dusy Church of the Union saloon has gone to San Francisco.

Hon. D. B. Lyman was a passenger for San Francisco Saturday night.

Hyman Fredricks of Virginia paid a flying visit yesterday to his relatives here.

James V. McCurdy of Paradise valley, who has been seriously ill, is improving.

J. A. Stephens, the Comstock attorney, and wife departed for San Francisco last evening.

Miss Kittie Grippen will depart for San Francisco this evening. She will be absent about six weeks.

I. Fredrick, the well-known jeweler, and his son, Powell, returned from San Francisco yesterday morning.

Frank Bequette, a well-known representative of the art preservative, arrived in town this morning from Salt Lake.

Miss Susie McCone and Master James McCone of Virginia City were passengers for California last evening, their vacation having expired.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Thompson of San Diego, who have been on a tour of observation throughout ageland, departed for their home last evening.

J. Germain, the Winnemucca boatman, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Jennie, and his son, Frank, passed through to the "glorious climate" Saturday evening.

Dan Donovan, Sheriff of Storey county, is still unimproved in health, and last evening passed through en route for Rubicon Springs, the waters of which he proposes to give a thorough trial.

Adolf A. Kraft, traveling representative of the saddle and harness house of A. A. Van Voorhees & Co., Sacramento, spent the Sabbath here and this morning proceeded on to Carson and the City of Sin.

Henry Treichler of Sacramento returned from Mason valley Saturday evening where he has enrolled himself on the list of tillers of the soil of that beautiful and productive valley. He has taken up 160 acres, and next year will proceed to cultivate it.

Rev. and Mrs. T. P. Bradshaw will depart for San Francisco this evening, the continued ill health of the former rendering the trip imperative.

County Commissioners.

The Board were late in getting to work this morning and but little was done until after noon. The following business was transacted up to the time the reporter left: A. M. Allen & Co., were granted the right to erect poles in the streets and alleys of Reno for the purpose of establishing an electric telegraph system.

The lease heretofore given to P. N. Marker of the Washoe and Ophir Turnpike running from Washoe valley to Virginia City was declared forfeited and the road declared a free road, and the clerk was directed to notify Mr. Marker and also the person now collecting toll upon the road to cease doing so in the future.

Serious illness of J. B. Williams.

Saturday evening about 11:30 o'clock, J. B. Williams, County Recorder, while on his way to his residence and when opposite O'Neill's blacksmith shop on Third street, was suddenly seized with a violent pain in his left side and fell unconscious to the ground. Sometime after passers-by discovered his prostrate form, and lighting a match recognized the Recorder, who was breathing with great difficulty. He was quickly removed to his residence and Dr. Hagan summoned, who succeeded in bringing him to and alleviating his sufferings. To-day, although Mr. Williams is resting easy, his case has developed alarming symptoms of pneumonia, and there are grave apprehensions feared of a fatal result.

Thieving Indians.

The wards of the nation in this county are gaining an unenviable reputation as thieves. Hardly a week passes but what some enigrant is relieved of more or less property by the dusky dead-heads on the railroad, and thus far they have succeeded in avoiding detection and arrest. Last evening a young sheep shepherd reported to the officers that a bundle belonging to him and containing the tools of his trade had been stolen. The officers thereupon telegraphed to Truckee a description of the property and supposed thief, and the probabilities are that the thieving red-knife will be brought back here for punishment.

Justice's Court Proceedings.

Justice Young to-day disposed of transgressors of the law as follows: Sam Douglas and Joseph Thompson, vagrants, twenty days each; Ed. Lawler, drunk and disorderly, five days; James Hill, drunk and disorderly, pleaded guilty and was fined $10.

The County Treasury.

The Board of Examiners counted the funds in the county treasury to-day, and report the financial condition of the county as follows: Gold, $14,625; silver, $4,072; State vouchers, $75; Auditor's vouchers, $81.50; total, $18,873.50.

"Wooden-Headed."

When a wooden pavement was destroyed outside St. Paul's cathedral, Siry Smith said: "If the evils will simply 'put their heads together,' the thing is done!" They were not half so wooden-headed, however, as it would be to deny the merit of Dr. R. V. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which has cured many thousands of live diseases, impure blood and king's evil, salt-rheum, dropsy, chronic affections of the throat, bronchitis, and lungs, asthma, catarrh, indigestion, neuralgia, dizziness, constipation, and all skin diseases. Druggists.

When everything else fails, Dr. King's Catarrh Remedy cures.

A FORT FOR RENO.

General Howard's Views—A Suggestion Worked Meeting.

Senator Stewart, loyal to Nevada's interest, has been endeavoring to have the War Department establish a military post at Reno. Through the request of Senator Stewart, the War Department asked for the opinion of General Howard in reference to the feasibility of such location. The General in response gave the following as his views in reference to the matter:

"My recommendation in favor of doing away with Fort Klamath, Or., was based on the opinion that Fort Bidwell would be continued for some time. A little difficulty occurring between the settlers and the Indians on the Klamath Reservation has just caused me to send a troop of cavalry there from Fort Bidwell again. When arrangements shall have been made to do away with Fort McDermitt it will, in my judgment, be wise to continue Fort Bidwell, on account of the Indians, several hundred of whom are roaming through that country from Northern Oregon and Nevada to Boise City, I. T. It will give much more confidence to the settlers and other settlers to retain Fort Bidwell rather than to establish a new fort at Reno. Still, eventually, I think a fort at Reno would be a sufficient safeguard to watch difficulties that may occur where there are so many nomadic Indians as there are in Nevada. I would say, however, it should be a few years before a final location of a permanent fort in that State is made."

General Howard is in favor of a fort here in time. With the present and prospective railroad connections, Reno now is almost as available for any actual service that may be required by reason of any Indian depredations as any point on the coast. It will not be long till Reno is connected on the north with the Union Pacific system of railroads, and in case of an emergency a sufficient array of soldiers could reach any point where an aggression had taken place. The present condition of the Indians is such, and their dependence on the whites so great, that no plan of theirs could be carried out, that looked like an onslaught on the whites, without the aid of the military forces of the government.

The plan was taken now as a military step, but it is a step in the right direction, and the lands could be secured and the necessary buildings erected, the conditions of the coast will be such as to warrant a concentration of the forts here, as an economic measure, there is everything in favor of locating the military here forthwith, and the progressive take steps, by public meeting or otherwise, to impress upon the War Department the necessity for early action. Our fellow-townsmen, William Thompson, is reported to have expressed a willingness to donate land sufficient for the erection of the necessary buildings, drill grounds, etc., and if his offer were properly presented and cogent reasons given by our people why a fort should be established here, there is every reason to believe that our representatives in Congress could induce the military authorities to look upon the proposition favorably.

TWAS ALL A MISTAKE.

Was it all a mistake? Ah, fold your arms, and weep! And weep my head nearer your breast, for my brain has grown weary with thinking and weeping.

And my heart is longing for rest. Was it all a mistake when, within your dear hand, You clasped mine with quickening breath, And vowed before God that forsaking all others, You would love me and keep me till death?

Was it all a mistake? Is there any one dear to whom your man's heart cries aloud? Is there any "sweet hope" lying dead in your room? That your marriage vow hides like a cloud?

Was it all a mistake when I thought I could cheer you And brighten your pathway through life? Do you dream of a face that is fairer than my face? Of a name you hold dearer than "wife"?

Was it all a mistake? Are you longing for freedom? Ah! I pray that release may be near: That Death's arms may take me and bear me to Heaven.

To wait—what was that? Not a tear! Ah, my own, you are weeping! You're sorry you said it.

'Twas anger that made those words fall? Then take me yourself, dear, and don't let Death have me.

For I don't want to die after all. —Toronto Globe.

MARKING THE CARDS.

Revelations Made by a Professional Gambler.

"How do you mark a card?"

"Easy enough," was his answer. "We do it in the same way that the blind man reads—by the sense of feeling."

"Before we can read these cards they must be put in shape. This is done with a ring which is worn on the most convenient finger. On the inside of the ring I mean the part under the finger—is a little steel spur, not sharp enough to penetrate the cards and make a hole, which would be detected, but a slight indentation, resembling a pimple, on the back of the card, but so small that with close observation it would not be noticed."

"This we cannot see, but we can feel it, and the location is the cipher to the denomination of the card."

"Of course we have to see and handle the cards before they can be 'marked,' but as we can handle from five to ten cards each deal it does not take long to have all the important cards punctured. Reading cards marked in this way is easy to me."

"I have one system as to the location of marks, and it is just as simple as telling the time by the location of the hands of a clock in the absence of the regular dial figures. Sharp players make their punctures so slight that they cannot be detected by the ordinary sense of feeling."

"The reading is then done with the ball of the thumb, from which the outer cuticle has been removed by acid. The nether skin is very tender, and readily responds when it comes in contact with the 'mark.'"

"Grease of this class can be detected by watching the thumb of the right hand in feeling. If it has a sliding motion up and down the cards then you can bet two to one that the dealer has got a book for the blind to read."

SHAKESPEARE ON BASEBALL.

Interesting Suggestions of the National Game in the Works of the Dramatist.

The game of baseball is generally supposed to be a modern pastime, but Owen Fawcett, the comedian, thinks that a look through Shakespeare will convince one that the game is of remote origin.

He presents the appended cullings:

"You bare (footed) ball-players."—King Lear.

"Why, these balls bound."—Merry Wives.

"Now let's have a catch."—Twelfth Night.

"I will run no base."—Merry Wives.

"And so I shall catch the fly."—Henry V.

"Let me be umpire in this."—Henry VI.

"Hector shall have a great catch."—Troil. and Cres.

"More like to run the country base."—Cymbeline.

"As swift in motion as a ball."—Romeo and Juliet.

"Ne'er leave striking in the field."—All's Well.

"After the scores."—Othello.

"Ajax goes up and down the field."—Troil. and Cres.

"Have you scored me?"—Winter's Tale.

"And the third nine."—Coriolanus.

"He proved the best man in the field."—Henry IV.

"The word is pitch and pay."—King John.

"However men do catch."—Tempest.

"What a foul play had we."—Titus Andronicus.

"Unprovoked of a pair of bases."—Henry IV.

"No other books, but the score."—Henry IV.

"The nine is buckram."—Henry IV.

"His confounded base."—Henry V.

"I will fear to catch."—Timon of Athens.

"Where go you with bats and clubs?"—Coriolanus.

"Let us see you in the field."—Troil. and Cres.

"Thrice again to make up nine."—Macbeth.

"Judgment."—Hamlet.—Philadelphia Press.

For a Country Dinner.

A country garden is a boon to a tired city, particularly if it is one of the old-fashioned gardens, with its lilacs, hollyhocks, mignonette and violets.

And for a country dinner the table should be near the window or veranda, if possible. In fine weather it should be on the veranda, looking into the garden. And if one must dine in a small room, let the carving be done outside, and all the greasy dishes kept out of sight.

There should be a sideboard and side tables, relays of knives, forks and spoons. Dishes and glasses not in use can stand; the soiled dishes should be carried out of sight.

A maid-servant should be taught how to carve, and how to serve the dinner neatly.—Mrs. Sherwood.

No Need of More Chalk.

Milkman—"Good morning, Mrs. McFeely, how are you feeling?"

Mrs. McFeely—"Oh, not much at all. Of a terrible heartburn."

"Did you ever try eating chalk for it, Mrs. McFeely?"

"Let I ever try eating chalk?"

"Yes."

"Holy Father, what must you be thinking of to ask me that question, when I've been taking milk from you the last two years?"

Absent Minded.

Mrs. Poite (at breakfast)—"Have some chips, John?"

Jack Poite (from an immeasurable distance, mentally, behind the folds of his newspaper)—"Yes, steak of ribs, please." Poite.
